Important Regulations:

(Extracted from the General Regulations for Taught Postgraduate Programmes)

Period of Study and Maximum Period of Registration

TPG4.1 The period of study of a taught postgraduate curriculum shall normally range from 2 semesters to 1 full academic year for full-time mode and 2 full academic years for part-time mode, unless otherwise specified.

TPG4.2 The maximum period of registration of a student shall normally be 200% (150% for Architecture Programme) of the normative period of study, unless otherwise permitted by the Registrar.

Attendance and Absence

TPG9.1 Students are required to attend all scheduled classes, tutorials and laboratory sessions.

TPG9.2 Students attending classes, tutorials and laboratory sessions are required to verify their identities by tapping their student card on the designated reader upon entry the classroom. Students who are unable to produce their student cards must instead show a valid government-issued photo identification (e.g., Hong Kong ID card or passport) to the instructor immediately at the start of the class. Failure to provide valid identification may result in being marked absent.

TPG9.3 To minimize disruption, students who arrive 15 minutes or more after the class has begun will be marked absent. Late arrivals may also be denied entry at the instructor's discretion.

TPG9.4 Academic impersonation, including impersonating another student or allowing himself to be impersonated to attend class on one's behalf, is a serious academic misconduct, and will be referred to the Student Disciplinary Committee for disciplinary actions.

TPG9.5 A student who is unable to attend classes or required activities because of illness or circumstances beyond his control for not more than one week shall inform the Faculty in which he has registered in writing at the earliest opportunity.

TPG9.6 When longer absence is necessary or when absence from assessments is involved, a student shall submit an application for leave of absence in writing to the Faculty together with a medical certificate issued by a registered medical practitioner or other supporting evidence.

TPG9.7 When a student's absence (excused or otherwise) from classes, tutorials and laboratory sessions has reached 30% or more of the total number of periods of a course in one semester, he will be deemed to have not met the course requirements, accordingly be prohibited from taking the examination of that course and receive a final failing grade (grade F) for that course, unless special approval has been obtained from the Registrar.

TPG9.8 A student who has been absent, with or without permission, for a period of such length as to make it impossible, in the opinion of the Registrar, for him to complete his year's work shall not resume attendance in the same academic year unless otherwise permitted by the Registrar.

TPG9.9 A student who has been absent for more than twelve continuous months without permission may be regarded as having withdrawn from his studies.

Unsatisfactory Performance and Discontinuation of Studies

TPG13.1 A student whose performance is unsatisfactory, may be required to:

- discontinue his studies; or
- repeat whole or part of his programme before being admitted to further assessments; or
- present himself for assessment without repeating any part of his programme.

TPG13.2 Unless otherwise permitted by the Faculty Board, a student shall be recommended for discontinuation of his studies by the Dean and confirmed by the Academic Board if he has failed to:

- gain at least 40% of the required credits in an academic year (for full-time mode);
- gain at least 20% of the required credits in an academic year (for part-time mode);
- resume study after a leave of absence or the period of suspension has ended; or
- fulfil successfully all the requirements for graduation within the maximum registration period permitted for the curriculum.

TPG13.3 The Board of Examiners may recommend to the Academic Board that a student be required to discontinue his studies in a curriculum administered by the Board.

TPG13.4 In all cases where a student is recommended for discontinuation of studies, there shall be a review of the circumstances of the case by the Student Review Committee.

TPG13.5 The student shall be informed of the decision of the Student Review Committee as soon as possible once the decision is made.

TPG13.6 Appeal against the decision of the Student Review Committee shall be made to the Registrar's Office in writing within five working days subsequent to the communication of the decision to the student.
